09/19/2019	336	MINUTE entry before the Honorable John Robert Blakey: For clarification purposes, the 10/2/19 hearing is simply an evidentiary proceeding, set in response to Kraft's motion for contempt, sanctions, and other relief 316 . The proceeding is a civil proceeding, where, as this Court previously explained, a variety of potential measures or remedies may be considered if supported by the record, including civil contempt, referral for a potential investigation into criminal contempt or ethical violations, vacating the consent decree, and/or setting new case management dates (including a trial date). At this point, this Court has made no ruling on any procedural objections or assertions of privilege by any party. Given the nature of the CFTC's filing in the Seventh Circuit, this Court retains jurisdiction to conduct the proceeding as scheduled, unless and until the Seventh Circuit directs otherwise.
